Dakorra

Dakorra are a new band featuring Kate from Ocean Ruins working with our very own Ian De Quadros AKA Tiger Mendoza and Stefano from Bruno Muerte/Moogiemán & The Masochists to create a new act of triphoptical illusion and crepuscular ambience. There are hints of Portishead and CHVRCHES, but also some serrated guitar direct from the mid-90s. The debut EP Elevate Me is a glossy melding of electro-pop and gothic rock.

Lost In Long Play

If you want longform psychedelic grooves, you've come to the right place. Lost In Long Play sit somewhere between a hippy jam and a dubby electronica workout...except they don't sit, they frug and bounce and basically get on down. Armed with a bank of electronics, a guitar and a hang drum, they will send you into a blissful reverie or a dancing frenzy, depending on their mood on the night.

Sugarbully

Joe Swarbrick was the main force behind teen geniuses Sexy Breakfast and, more significantly, the literate prog maniacs that were Borderville, definitely one of Oxford's best ever bands. Now Joe is back as a rapper in the form of Sugarbully. If you've come across Joe's earlier work you'll find it no surprise that his rhymes are theatrical, camp, eloquent and playful, but now he comes armed with a big bag of beats. Sweet.
