The Kokroachez

We've been chatting to The Kokroachez about a gig for yonks, but we were waiting until they were all 18 before booking them – but as soon as we knew we were moving to a venue with a different licence we leapt to have their spiky, energetic, indie rock sound in the Gappy family. "Potential to be the next Supergrass" Melting Pot Radio. "A cracking young band with a kickass front woman and a bright future" BBC Oxford.

The Jerichos

Led by Julian Wagstaff, The Jerichos are a bouncy pop project with a slight hip-hop edge, which might entice fans of Gorillaz or Tame Impala. They rather delightfully call their varied, mixed-up sound "surf and turf for the ears", and their recent Leo EP brings a little tropical glow to warm things up. And, as we're at the north end of town nowadays, the apposite band name was a bonus!

N:SH

N:SH is a multi-instrumentalist songwriter whose sound can leap from a soft ambient hum to a rousing vocal, and his music is as likely to be artfully textural as it is to be catchily melodic. He has a broad range of influences, including The Smile, Sigu Ros, Ben Harper, The National, and Damien Rice.
