No Worries If Not

No Worries if Not are an electronic dance music duo with catchy tongue-in-cheek lyrics and slick choreography. One for fans of Confidence Man, Scissor Sisters, and Talking Heads. As well as absolute technopop bangers, their shows are characterised by absurd deadpan humour, garnering them a place in the 2025 Musical Comedy Awards semi-finals. You won't know whether to dance like loons, laugh like drains, or visit the boulangerie.

Sebastian Reynolds

Sebastian Reynolds is a music producer and composer based between Oxford and Swindon, and he will be known to local gig-goers as a previous member of many fantastic local acts, such as Flights Of Helios, Keyboard Choir, and The Evenings, as well as promoting events and releasing records via his PinDrop organisation. Sebastian recently released his new collaborative album New Beginnings, and he is working on a score commission for contemporary dance company Neon Dance, a film score commission with director Simon Blake for a new horror film entitled Black Noise and a score commission from Oxford University for the archival 1928 film Days of Chivalry, directed by Hazel Ffennell.

Radiochuj

Radiochuj are a newish local duo, featuring Magic Macoviak from Oxford psych favourites Mystery Biscuit, who add hypnotic live drums to bubbling synths to create spiralling kraut grooves. Leaning towards longform semi-improvised pieces, they invite you to join them on long, slightly trippy journeys, where the scenery is freaky, and the only stops are to pick up robot hitch-hikers and fresh mushrooms.
